Website Explainer Video — Full Script

Tone: calm, hopeful, human. Soft piano / ambient music. Warm, dignified, non-stigmatizing. Captions always on. Total runtime approx. 100 seconds (cold open + explainer + close).

1. Cold Open — "The Hardest Part Is Doing It Alone"

~22 sec. Quieter, softer, a little lonelier — then warmth arrives when the app appears.

#	VISUAL	VOICEOVER	ON-SCREEN TEXT
0. 1	Person alone at night, phone dark on the table. Late clock.	"Recovery is hard enough. Doing it alone makes it harder."
0. 2	A quiet craving moment — restless, unsure what to do. No tools, just the feeling.	"A craving hits at 11 p.m. — and there's no plan, no one to call, nothing to reach for."	When a craving hits... then what?
0. 3	Sticky notes, a pill bottle, a paper calendar with missed days.	"Doses get missed. Good days blur together. Progress is impossible to see."	Am I even getting better?
0. 4	Person stares at phone contacts, hesitates, puts it down.	"And the people who could help feel a world away."	So many people care. But who do you call?
0. 5	Screen fades toward warm sage. The app's glow appears.	"What if all of that lived in one place — right in your pocket?"	There's a better way.

2. Main Explainer — "One Day at a Time"

~80 sec. Gentle screen-recording of the app with warm human cutaways.

#	VISUAL	VOICEOVER	ON-SCREEN TEXT
1	Quiet morning. A person picks up their phone. App opens to the sage Welcome screen.	"Recovery isn't one big moment. It's a series of small, ordinary days."
2	Home screen — Recovery Health gauge counts up to 74, "You're doing good."	"RudraHealth is a companion for opioid recovery — with you every single day."	Your recovery, one day at a time
3	Tap the Reflect check-in — mood, cravings, sleep sliders.	"A gentle daily check-in helps you notice how you're really doing..."
4	Progress line charts trending upward.	"...so you can see your patterns, and see yourself moving forward."	Steady counts for a lot
5	Craving hits — thumb taps the Help button; breathing ring, relief activities.	"When a craving hits, help is one tap away. Breathe. Ground yourself. Reach your people."	Most urges pass in 15–30 minutes

#	VISUAL	VOICEOVER	ON-SCREEN TEXT
6	My People list — call / text a coach, sponsor, family.	"Because no one should do this alone. Your support team is always right here."
7	Connect community feed — someone posts "90 days today." Hearts appear.	"And a caring community that gets it — celebrating every win, big or small."
8	Rewards — medal, XP, "47 days," a family reward unlocking.	"Every step earns real encouragement — streaks, milestones, even rewards from the people who love you."	47 days. That takes real effort.
9	Warm close on the person, slight smile. Logo animates in.	"This is what capable looks like. One day at a time — with RudraHealth."	RudraHealth · Your companion in recovery
10	Logo + CTA button.	(music resolves)	Start today [yourwebsite.com]

3. 30-Second Social Cut

"Recovery happens one ordinary day at a time. RudraHealth is with you for every one of them — a daily check-in to track how you're doing, coping tools the moment a craving hits, and a community and care team always one tap away. Every step earns real encouragement, so the streak you build is one you can see. This is what capable looks like. RudraHealth — your companion in recovery. Start today."

4. The Problem it Solves (Without vs. With)

Useful for the video contrast and for website copy.

WITHOUT RudraHealth	WITH RudraHealth
Cravings hit with no plan and no tools in the moment	A one-tap urge toolkit: breathing, relief activities, your people
Feeling isolated — like no one understands	An anonymous peer community + care team, always one tap away
Missed MOUD doses, no reminders or streaks	Dose reminders, one-tap logging, streaks that keep you going
Can't tell if you're actually improving	A daily Recovery Health score + trends that show the direction is up
Motivation fades after the early days	XP, milestones, and real rewards from family keep it going
Crisis moments feel scary and alone	Instant access to 911, 988, crisis text, and naloxone help

5. Optional "Split-Screen" Device

Run left = grey / still "without" and right = warm / animated "with" side by side for three beats, then resolve both into the single logo:

- Left: dark phone at midnight. Right: the breathing ring + "Reach your people."
- Left: paper calendar with gaps. Right: the rising Progress chart.
- Left: hesitating over contacts. Right: the Connect feed lighting up with support.

VO on resolve: "The whole journey — in one place. RudraHealth."

6. Production & Sensitivity Notes

- Voice: calm, kind, conversational — a supportive friend, not a salesperson.
- Pace: slow and breathable; let screens linger. No urgency or fear-based framing.
- Casting: a real, relatable person; hopeful but authentic.
- Sensitivity: keep the "without" section relatable, not bleak — imply the struggle, never depict substance use; resolve to hope within ~20 seconds.
- Captions: always on — many watch muted.
- Compliance line (small, end frame): "A recovery companion, not a medical or emergency service. In an emergency, call 911. Records protected under 42 CFR Part 2 & HIPAA."
- CTA options: "Start today" · "Begin your first check-in" · "Download free."
